FAMILY OF ARENBERG ENJOYS GREAT RIGHT

Every One of Its Members Entitled From Birth to Titles of Duke and Prince.

BY LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY. HERE is one great house of the European nobility, every one of the thirty members of which enjoys from birth the title of duke and prince or duchess and princess. It is the family of Arenberg, which exercised petty sovereign sway until the Vienna, 1814-1815. Its present chier, Duke Engelbert of Arenberg, who is also fifteenth Duke of Aerschot and of Croy, fourth Duke of Aerschot and of Croy, fourth Duke of Meppen, Prince of Recklinghausen, Prince of Ligne, and Count de la Marck, was born and brought up at Brussels, where his mother, the dowager duchess, still resides in that wonderful historic Arenberg Palace, which for the last 400 berg Palace, which, for the last 400 years, has been the most notable feature of that city. But he now makes his home in Germany, where his es-tates embrace an area of no less than 1,100 square miles, in addition to which he has much landed property in Austria, Belgium and France.

Nobody, however, save those imme-diately concerned, was aware until the investigations in connection with the new special assessment of capital for military purposes brought the matter to light, that the duke possesses the mining rights for almost the whole of the Prussian province of Westphalia. the greatest mining district in Ger-These mineral rights were possessed from the time of Charlemagne by the original house of Arenberg, by the original house of Arenberg, which became extinct in the male line in 1280, when the honors and estates and prerogatives were continued by the Holy Roman Empire to Count En-gelbert de la Marck, husband of the only child and heiress of the last or her family.

These mineral rights were confirmed in the year 1356 to the head of the thus continued house of Arenberg, by the so-called Golden Bull of Emperor the so-called Golden Bull of Emperor Charles IV. By its terms no one has been allowed to open up any mining operations in Westphalia without obtaining the permission of the chief of the house of Arenberg for the time being, permission being only granted in return for a royalty of 1 per cent on the selling price of the mining area. PIANOS

On the selling price of the mining product; that is to say, if an owner of an estate discovers that there is coal lands, he cannot mine and develop the sources of wealth without permission of the Duke of Arenberg, and paying him a royalty. These royalties, which have been thus paid year by year for the last seven centuries, are not only the origin of the colossal wealth of the Arenof the colorsal wealth of the Arenbergs, but bring in to this day an enormous revenue. Moreover, within the last few years these revenues have been increasing by leaps and bounds, having tripled within the last twenty years. That such rights as these should have existed and augmented in value during 700 years, through all sorts of revolutions and changes of sovereignty and of government, is almost incredible, and it conment, is almost incredible, and it con-stitutes perhaps the most notable instance of that much abused term, "unearned increment." Sooner or later popular sentiment is bound to legislate this wonderful privilege out of

Sir Philip Brocklehurst, whose im pending marriage to Miss Gladys Mur-ray, of Whitten Park, Hounslow, has been announced, is the only member of Sir Ernest Stackleton's last Antarc-tle expedition who suffered any injury, having lost one of his big toes through frost-bite. A volunteer member of the party, and Shackleton's principal lieutenant, he was, in spite of his youth, the chief surveyor of the expedition, doing most important work. He spent his twenty-urst birth-day, that is to say, he attained his day, that is to say, he attained his majority, while engaged in the first ascent ever made of Mount Erebus, the great Antarctic volcano. His fondness for travel and exploration comes to him by inheritance, as his father was well known in connection with geographical explorations. Sir Philip is very rich, the wealth of the family being derived from their silk manufacturing and banking busi-ness in Macclesfield and Manchester. The Brocklehursts are, in fact, at the head of the silk manufacturing trade in Eagland, and, although Sir Philip's baronetcy is of recent origin, having been created in favor of his father, the family has been settled in Cheshire since the time of the Reformation.

A cousin of Sir Philip, Major-General John Brocklehurst, Lord Lieutenant of Rutlandshire, and who, equerry to Queen Victoria, has been attached to the household of Queen Alexandra in a similar capacity for the last twelve years, enjoys the unique expe-rience, though a commoner, of having been crowned as King of Great Brit-ain and Ireland in Westminster Abbey, not merely once, but on several occa

It may be recalled that King Edward's coronation was preceded by many rehearsals, in order that there might be no hitch in the ceremony. As he was just recovering from a severe operation, it was out of the question that he should take part in these rehearsals and in correspondent these rehearsals, and in consequence thereof, General Brocklehurst was de puted to take his place. RANDOLPH-MACON MATTER IN COURT Judge Chichester Reserves Decision After Hearing From Both Sides.

MAY REACH HIGHEST COURT

Case Involves Direct Church Control of Educational Institutions.

Extended argument on the Randolph-

Macon litigation was heard yesterday by Judge R. H. L. Chichester, of Fredericksburg, the relations of the college to the Methodist Conference being gone over in detail in an effort to make per manent an injunction restraining the Plan Discussed at Largely Attrustees from proceeding to fill certain vacancies on the hoard. Judge Chichester reserved his lecision. He was requested, if possible, to file his opinion by June 10, on which date the trustees meet, but was unable to make any promise, as the docket of the Fifteenth Judicial Circuit is much overcrowded. The sitting was as judge of the Circuit Court of Hanover County, but for convenience of the attorneys, the hearing was held in the State Supreme Court rooms, where ready access could be had to the Law Library, from which many references were cited.

Extended Argument.

A. W. Patterson appeared as attorney for the board, Hill Carter and C. M. Armstrong appearing for the four minority trustees, who seek to have the injunction made permanent.

tees operates under a charter granted by the State, and is a self-perpetuating body, members being elected for life or until they resign, the board filling its own vacancies.

Besides the college for men at Ashland, the board operates the Randolph-Macon Woman's College at Lynchburg and several academies, having valuable properties and some endowment. The colleges have always been known as Methodist institutions, a majority of the board having always been either ministers or laymen of the Methodist Church, and the head of the institution has always been a Methodist.

Old Glies's eldest son the late Synchet Loder, was created a baronet in 1857, on the occasion of Queen Vistiria's golden jubilez, and a year later was succeeded by his son, the present head of the family, Sir Edmund, whe has been one of the champion ride shots in Engiand, and who, at Leonardslee, his place in Sussex, one of the most beautiful and largest parks in the south of England, has acclimatized all sorts of foreign animals.

There kangaroos, emus, Patagonian haires, Chinese deer, and American prairie dogs roam at large in a portion of the park devoted to their existence, and which is approprietely known as Paradise. A feature of it is the large and thriving colony of North American beavers, whose clever engineering works are a source of never ending interest. Leonardslee, by the by, figures in one of the adventage of the adventage pension, while, on the other hand, it was charged that Dr. Cannon to the college, and that the institutions were number direct church control. Committees were named, reports have been made and conferences held, and the matter debated in one conference after another, the trustees holding that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust funds under their control; that they had certain trust fu college, and that the institutions were mers, of Salem; C. M. Armstrong, of Baltimore, and C. W. Prettyman, of Maryland—object to this agreement, holding that it is a violation charter of the college, in that in prac-tical effect it delegates the election of trustees to the two Methodist Confer-ences when the charter distinctly pro-vides that vacancies must be filled by the board itself.

In accordance with the agreement the board some time ago made nomi-nations to fill four vacancies, as follows: Rev. J. N. Latham, D. D., pastor of Court Street Methodist Church, Lynchburg, and Rev. J. W. Shackleford, of Norfolk, of the Virginia Conference, and Rev. H. H. Sherman and Rev. D. H. Kerns, of the Baltimore Conference.

Conference The conferences approved of these nominations, and it was expected that they would be duly elected at the annual meeting of the board on June

Injunction Is Secured. There was no personal objection to any of the above nominees, but realizing that they were fighting for a principle, and that the endowment funds and future control of the institutions were at stake, the four dis-senting trustees applied to the Circuit Court of Hanover County and received Court of Hanover County and received from Judge Chichester a temporary injunction restraining the board from proceeding to elect to existing vacancies the four men so nominated and confirmed. The argument yesterday was on the point as to whether this injunction should be made permanent or should be dissolved. Should a permanent injunction be refused, the long-drawn-out fight will have ended and the conferences will be in full control of the colleges. Should the injunction be made permanent, it would by no means indicate that the colleges would not continue under colleges would not continue under Methodist auspices, as the large majority of the trustees are ministers of laymen of the Methodist Church, but it would mean that it was the duty of the board under its charter to handle the funds intrusted to it and to conduct the institutions under its care without the direct control and supervision of any church conference or other ecclesiastical body.

There is every probability that the case will reach the highest courts.

FOR IMPROVEMENT OF WARE RIVER

tended Meeting Held at Hockley Wharf. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Gloucester Courthouse, Va., May 23 .-A public meeting was held this morning at 11 o'clock at Hockley Wharf with regard to the proposed deepening with regard to the proposed deepening of the Ware River. Lieutenant-Colonel W. C. Langfeltt, of the corp of engineer's office, accompanied by Captain Boine, was present. By the plan of deepening this river a steamboat landing will be within two miles of Gloucester Courthouse. The committee appointed at the last meeting, which was held on May 5. presented a which was held on May 5, presented a which was held on May 5, presented a paper telling of the many advantages of this improvement, and what a large section of Gloucester County would be benefited. This paper told of the large amount of commerce carried on now on the river, and the increase that this improvement would bring about. At this interesting and enthusiastic meeting a large number of clippers.

At this interesting and enthusiastic meeting a large number of citizens were present, and there were very few who opposed this pian. There were a few members present who opposed the plan of deepening the river on account of having oyster beds in the channel, which would be totally destroyed.

Colonel Langfeitt instructed the committee to make a map of the river, showing the oyster grounds and the owners, with a statement as to whether they favored or opposed this improvement. After the meeting adjourned Dr. W. R. Laeger, of Glenroy, invited the committee and others to his home, and the occasion was greatly enjoyed. ly enjoyed.

EQUITY IS WITH WILLIAMS.

Standing Master Recommends That Injunction Be Made Permanent.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Salisbury, N. C., May 23.—The second big decision was sent to-day by Standing Master A. H. Price, of Salisbury, to Judge James E. Boyd, at Greensboro, in the noted action of H. Glenn Williams, in which George H. Brown, collector of internal revenue for the Western North Carolina district, was enloined from moving 30,000 gallons of whiskey. The standing master iound that the equity is with Williams, and has recommended that the injunction be made permanent. The case is one of long standing, and has created much interest.
